FOREWORD

The National Recycling Directory was initially printed in January of 1982. It was the first attempt to consolidate nationwide information on manufacturers that utilize recycled materials in the production process. Although the initial publication was very well received by the public, there were various shortcomings, many of which have been addressed and corrected in this second edition.

Perhaps one of the more confusing aspects of the initial publication was the title itself. The National Recycling Directory implies a very broad view of the recycling industry, whereas the publication was supposed to address only manufacturers and exclude the many thousands of secondary materials dealer/processors. Thus, the title has now been changed to the National Directory of Manufacturers Utilizing Recycled Materials to more accurately reflect its intent.

There were, admittedly, many dealer/processors erroneously listed in the first edition, but most of these listings have now been deleted. It is sometimes very difficult to define and distinguish between dealer/processors and manufacturers and place them in their respective categories, so there may still remain some dealer/processors within the pages of this second publication.

There was a concerted effort to expand and correct the listings for the categories of plastics and rubber for this second publication, for it was obvious that these two categories were lacking in the first edition. Other categories were expanded as well, but the two aforementioned categories received the most attention.

A new appendix (Appendix A) has also been included in this second publication. This appendix lists manufacturers by their product classification instead of their geographic location. However, since much of the information is incomplete or repetitive, only the categories of paper, plastics, and rubber have been included.

Overall, this second publication is an improvement over the first, but it is by no means a comprehensive document. It is not all inclusive of those companies that utilize recycled materials in their respective production processes. We have just "scratched the surface". It can only be hoped that with time and help from the recycling industry and concerned individuals, more information on these manufacturers will be obtained and included in future editions of this directory.

The main purpose of the National Directory of Manufacturers Utilizing Recycled Materials is to encourage recycling and the manufacturing of products made from recycled or recovered materials. This directory can be used to assist individuals, organizations, government, businesses, and institutions in their recycling efforts by providing information on markets for secondary materials. Federal, state, and local governments should find the directory useful in their efforts to procure products made from recycled materials. Scrap processors and dealers can use it to aid in locating the closest or most suitable market for their materials. Community and other non-profit recycling programs will be assisted in locating the best markets for their recovered materials.

Many buyers specify grades, sizes, minimum or maximum quantities, types, weights, amount of allowable contamination, or other conditions for materials that they purchase. Also, prices offered are quite variable. Sorting, cleaning, and properly packaging materials will improve the market value of the recyclable materials to be sold. It is advisable to contact prospective buyers to determine what specifications should be met before storing or delivering any materials. Some markets will provide storage containers, processing equipment and/or help with transportation.

INTRODUCTION

This directory was prepared by the Resource Recovery Subsection, Florida Department of Environmental Regulation under a purchase order agreement with the National Bureau of Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce. It focuses on manufacturers and/or distributors of products made from waste materials. The directory is one approach being taken by the U.S. Department of Commerce to fulfill its obligations as outlined in Subtitle E, Section 5003 (1,2,3) of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (PL 94-580). The National Bureau of Standards has been delegated the responsibility to "identify the geographical location of existing or potential markets for recovered materials".

Considerable effort has been made to make this directory as up-to-date and complete as possible with the information that is currently available. As with all listings of this type, omissions and changes will occur. The National Bureau of Standards should be contacted regarding any additions or changes which should be included for future printings of the directory.

The assistance and enthusiasm of many state solid waste agencies, trade associations, and recycling organizations in providing information is greatly appreciated.

EXPLANATION OF DIRECTORY FORMAT

The companies listed in this directory manufacture products which contain some recycled or recovered material. The directory consists of separate sections for the types of materials used. The seven categories of materials are glass, ferrous metals, non-ferrous metals, paper, plastic, rubber, and textiles. Within each section, the states are listed in alphabetical order. The companies are listed in alphabetical order under the state in which they are located.

The listings do not include those companies which are exclusively dealer/processors, tire retreaders, energy recovery facilities, or are involved in the recovery of used oils, solvents, or chemical wastes. These companies can be located by consulting the appropriate organizations or directories listed in Appendices C and D of this directory and the yellow pages of local telephone directories.

11. ABSTRACT (A 200-word or less factual summary of most significant information. If document includes a significant bibliography or literature survey, mention it here)

The directory focuses on manufacturers and/or distributors of products made from waste materials. Companies listed in the directory manufacture products which contain some recycled or recovered material. The directory consists of separate sections for the types of recycled materials used: glass, ferrous metals, non-ferrous metals, paper, plastic, rubber, and textiles. The states are listed alphabetically within each subsection, and the companies are listed alphabetically under the state in which they are located.

This is an update of the January 1982 edition entitled "National Recycling Directory," Report No. NBS-GCR-82-366.
